

DISCOVER NEWS & AWARDS

Winner in the 2008 American Photography Contest Mackenzie Stroh's Photos of Stephen Hawking

American Society of Journalists and Authors 2008 Annual Writing Award "Science and Islam"

American Institute of Physics 2007 Science Writing Award "If an Electron Can Be in Two Places at Once, Why Can't You?"

2007 MPA Digital Award 3rd Place: Best Podcast Series "Vital Signs"

2007 Ellie National Magazine Award Finalist Columns and Commentary

"DISCOVER has perfected its formula of making science accessible to a broad range of brainy people."

—New York Post, January 22, 2008

"A thought-tickler that can keep you awake all night is DISCOVER, which has been expanding its mental base from science to the much wider world of worry."

—New York Post, May 22, 2007

DISCOVER's publisher said it is a compliment that Scientific American is reaching out to his magazine's readership. "I see it of course as an alert that we can't ignore the world around us," he says. "This is a sign we are on the right track and that smart, savvy people aren't willing to just leave it up to us."

—Wall Street Journal, June 25, 2007

"[DISCOVER] tackles topics ranging from global warming to black holes to Neanderthals with a refreshing lack of academic jargon. And you thought you'd never understand string theory."

—Chicago Tribune, "Our 50 Favorite Magazines," June 26, 2007

90 Fifth Avenue
11th Floor
New York, NY 10011
212-624-4800

discovermagazine.com